TOTEMS OF LIGHT

“In the past, this distinction did not exist:

Giotto painted and built buildings, Leonardo da Vinci painted, sculpted, and invented machines.

The activities of the painter, architect, sculptor, inventor, and poet were different activities, united by a single method of projection.

A machine by Leonardo da Vinci does not correspond to the “style” of the Mona Lisa.

Nevertheless, these operations have something in common: a subjective method, a sincere project, professional honesty, a true craft.”

From the book Artist and Designer by Bruno Munari.

I seek to represent the essence of nature and the human being, the essence of life in my works,
with a minimum material presence, balancing volume, shape,
and space to emphasize emptiness over mass.

TRIBUTE TO NATURE
COLLECTIBLE DESIGN

An aerial photograph of a massive ocean vortex, likely a cyclone or hurricane, viewed from above. The center of the storm is a bright, circular area of white foam and churning water, surrounded by concentric rings of darker, swirling water. The overall scene is dramatic and powerful, capturing the raw energy of the ocean.

Sconce

An aerial photograph of a dense forest, viewed from above. The trees are dark green and form a complex, interconnected pattern. Overlaid on this pattern is a bright white, web-like or marbled texture that resembles a spiderweb or a complex network of veins. The overall effect is a striking contrast between the natural green and the artificial white pattern.

on the energy that we are, on the need for harmony

TRIBUTE TO THE SOUL
SCULPTURES

The image features a solid, deep blue background. In the foreground, there are two large, smooth, white, curved lines that sweep across the frame from left to right. These lines are slightly overlapping and have a soft, ethereal glow, suggesting they are part of a larger sculpture or architectural element. The lighting is soft and directional, highlighting the curves and creating a sense of depth and movement.

“The aim of art is to represent not the outward appearance of things, but their inward significance.”

Aristotle

When we create with love and intention, our actions can have a profound effect on people and their surroundings.

I specialize in using minerals, numerology and sacred geometry within my work, which serves as a catalyst for realigning and harmonizing spaces. The energy emitted by my creations is one of balance and harmony, fostering a sense of equilibrium in the environment.

Furthermore, all of my pieces are created to inspire inner growth and purity through its minimalistic presence.

I view my art, whether it's sculptural pieces, unique design, paintings or jewelry, as interconnected "Totems of Light" that elevate and enhance beauty. Each creation serves as a beacon of positive energy, enriching the community and the lives of those who interact with it.

They invite people to engage in an introspective dialogue, connecting them to freedom, emancipation, and self-fulfillment.

"I am inspired by love, which is our essence, and the energy that generates the universe."
